

Rahimov Eshmurod Normuradovich: "Importance and necessity of developing international trade relations on international finance" (5A230604 - "International Finance").

Scientific adviser: dotc. Xayriddinov A.

The purpose and objectives of the study. The aim of the thesis based on the study of international experience of major international retailers identify directions for their further development and to develop practical recommendations for improving the efficiency and profitability of their operations.

In accordance with the purpose of the following tasks:

- Determination of the historical stages of the formation of international trade law;
- Study of different methodological concepts of international trade;
- Analysis and systematization of the principles of international trade;
- Importance of risks and credits in the world trade in international finance.
- International accounts in international trade.
- The role of World Trade Organization (WTO) in controlling world trade.